Idaho Falls, Idaho-March 20, 2008-Tight Line Media is earning national honors with a Silver Telly Award for its production of 'Idaho Meth Project Awareness.'

Mountain View Hospital contracted with Tight Line Media for the video, which debuted at the hospital's 'Idaho Meth Project' fundraising banquet in October 2007. "This is a tribute to all the people who came together to fight this epidemic, especially those willing to share their revealing stories about the kind of damage meth can do," says Frank McGovern, Mountain View Hospital Director of Public Relations. "Mountain View is proud to be a part of this."

'Idaho Meth Project Awareness' also aired as a special on KIFI Local News 8 in October. The 10-minute documentary profiles the lives of four local people either addicted to meth or related to a meth user. Their painful struggle reveals the challenge facing the community and the state in the fight against meth. "We have a lot of work ahead of us," says Meghan Ronk, Idaho Meth Project Executive Director. "We have great faith the Idaho Meth Project is going to work. We'll do everything we can. It's something we can't afford not to address."

Tight Line Media is owned and operated by multi-media professional, Kris Millgate, who also produces Time OUT with Kris Millgate for KPVI Newschannel 6 and writes for Post Register Outdoors and Idaho Falls Magazine. "I had no idea how deadly meth was until I met the people in this documentary," says Kris Millgate, Tight Line Media CEO. "The opportunity to spend so many hours with them, in and out of the editing room, really opened my eyes to the scary situation surrounding us."

The Telly Awards were established in 1978 as the premier award honoring outstanding productions nationally and internationally. More than 14,000 entries are submitted annually for the Telly Awards. Less than 10% of the projects are awarded the Silver Telly, the highest honor issued.
